CANAL AND ZONE IMPROVED

Long Period of Idleness Was Used to Strengthen the Government and Works of Panama

LOOK TO DEFENSES OF THE CANAL

Troops Have Been Pouring in from the United States Steadily in Small Detachments

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26.—When the slides pinched the Panama canal closed, all the world knew it. Now that it has been reopened with a better prospect of remaining so than ever before, the fact is scarcely realized away from the zone. Three ships of the United States navy passed through the big waterway in March and since that time regular commercial traffic has been resumed.

It is a notable fact that although the public confidence in the canal sagged perceptibly when the slides blocked its channel, the shipping world never lost faith in it for a moment. All through the period of dredging, vessels kept coming to Colon and Balboa, ready to wait for a passage through the canal if the zone government would give them any assurance. But the officials would make no promise and the ships went their long way via the Straits of Magellan. When at last the canal was announced to be open, there were vessels waiting. Also the South American Steamship company, operating between Panama and Chile, which gets most of its business through the canal, has increased its fleet from three vessels to five, and now schedules five sailings in six weeks.

So the shipping world has kept its faith in the canal, and meantime, the canal government, by means of its little railroad, has done its best to handle the business across the isthmus. A dozen big lines have been wholly dependent on the Panama railroad, and they have been fairly well served, though not without a terrific straining of resources. The force of the railroad was increased by a thousand men, and it was run to capacity. It might have handled regular business fairly well, but a great deal of cargo was delivered at the Atlantic terminals, to be transhipped when ever Pacific bottoms could be found to accommodate it.

Mountains of Cargo

The shipping business was exceedingly lively. Vessels soon became hooked with orders far ahead, and they began to refuse the cheaper kinds of freight. Hence cargoes piled up mountain high on the great government terminals, leaving just space enough between the piles for the toiling trucks and black men to move about. The berths were filled with vessels waiting a chance to unload. Worst of all, rolling stock of the railroad was left under load when it was badly needed. The railroad finally declared an embargo on all cargo destined for points south of Callao.

Now the stress and overcrowding will be quickly relieved, and the Panama canal will take its place again in the world's commerce, better equipped to do its work than ever before. While the dredges have been clearing out Culabra cut, great improvements have been under way at the Pacific terminals. An immense coaling plant, a drydock a thousand feet long, and new piers are now nearing completion. A new water tank has been built at Balboa, and a signal station established on the top of Sosa hill, which is 363 feet high and overlooks an important stretch of the canal. By means of time ball signals, it will be possible to control vessels from this eminence.

MAYOR REQUESTS RE-ADVERTISEMENT FOR TEAMING BIDS

In Letter to Hanson He Points Out That Publication Does Not Comply with the Resolution

HANSON INCLINES TO ARGUE

Sees City Attorney Whom He Declares Drew Up Advertisement After Discussion of Point Raised

All bids for city teaming were returned unopened to the bidders by the board of public works this afternoon at the time specified for letting the municipal contract. In deference to the mayor's wishes the board decided to re-advertise in the terms laid down by the council. Commissioner Carl Hanson laid before the board an opinion from the city attorney, in which he upheld the authority of the board in publishing the original advertisement, but the commissioners decided to save controversy by acceding to the mayor's request.

With a letter from Mayor A. A. Bentley before them, calling attention to the fact that the advertisement for bids on city teaming is not in accordance with the council order, two members of the board of public works today were considering rejection of all bids which were to be opened this afternoon, and re-advertising in the terms laid down by the council resolution. This action was requested by the mayor, and Commissioners Fred Schnell and John Vollmar this morning expressed themselves as willing to follow his recommendation.

Hanson Objects. Commissioner Carl Hanson, however, upon whom the other members of the board place the burden of drawing up the objectionable advertisement, indicated this morning that he will not submit to re-advertising without a struggle. He called upon the city attorney this morning and requested a ruling. Mr. Hanson believes, he said, that the board was within its rights in framing the advertisement as it saw fit under the council resolution. He declared that the publication had been drawn up by City Attorney Higbee after a discussion of the point now raised.

"We use eight teams in dry and windy weather," said Mr. Hanson this morning, "and it seems to me the city could get a better contract by getting them all from the same person. If we threw the bids open to small team-owners, we should have perhaps twenty men bidding on the use of one team. If they all made the same price, we couldn't select the eight we need without showing discrimination of some kind."

Union Bids Barred?

Mr. Hanson said that members of the union had told him they were forbidden by the union rules from bidding on the city contract, as they were required to take work only on a daily scale of compensation. Mr. Hanson denied that only one contractor in the city is equipped to furnish the teams under the regulations of the advertisement. There are two or three contractors able to meet the conditions by hiring other teamsters, he said.

That the other two members of the board signed the advertisement under protest was divulged this morning by Commissioner Vollmar. The discrepancy with the council resolution was noticed, he said, and discussed at a meeting of the board. They signed the advertisement when Mr. Hanson insisted that it was the only feasible way to let the contract for city teaming.

KING'S FORCES IN DUBLIN AND GAIN HOLD ON REBELS

Martial Law Proclaimed as Sinn Feiners Are Reported Still Fighting Government Troops

CHRONICLE BLAMES ULSTERITES

Sinn Fein Faction Thought to Have Grown in South with Activities of Ulsters in North

LONDON, April 26.—Government troops, hastily transported from England and rushed forward from Belfast, have reached Dublin and occupied St. Stephen's Green and Liberty hall, in the heart of the Irish capital. Premier Asquith announced in commons this afternoon.

Nineteen Killed. Nineteen persons have been killed and 27 wounded thus far in the Dublin riots, Lord Lansdowne announced this afternoon. Included in the casualty list were two loyal volunteers and two policemen, who were killed and six loyal volunteers who were wounded.

Martial law has been declared in Dublin county. Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell announced that he will leave for Ireland this afternoon to direct the suppression of the revolt, if possible.

Dublin was still cut off from telegraphic communication today and, according to the best available information, the principal part of the Irish capital is in the hands of the rebels. It is believed serious fighting between the Sinn Fein forces and the government troops continues, though the revolt thus far has not spread to other districts.

Believe Rebels Hold Post Office. The general post office captured at the beginning of the disorders, is believed to be still in the hands of the rebels. The Daily Chronicle pointed out editorially today that the official statement from the press bureau last night did not claim the capture of "an important position seized by the rebels," and remarked that this omission suggests that the rebels are still holding out.

Information regarding the revolt is still confined to the official dispatches. The censor has passed no press dispatches on the fighting and the London newspapers today fell back upon editorial comment on the uprising.

For several weeks rumors that a revolution was impending in Ireland have been in circulation, some reports even fixing the outbreak definitely on Easter Sunday. The newspapers generally took the view today that the reports were no surprise.

Blame Ulster Depredations

"The outbreak will not come quite as a bolt out of the blue from any one in touch with Irish affairs," said the Chronicle. "Ever since the Ulster volunteers set up their deplorable example of open lawlessness and armed defiance of the crown, the temptation of all Irish extremists has been to preach violence as the one argument to which English rule must listen."

"Less than a month ago, the Ulster volunteers perpetrated a sensational act of lawlessness at Breagh."

PARISH ON NEW TACK TO KEEP FATHER MURPHY

A subscription list that is being circulated in St. James parish, north La Crosse, to wipe out the church and school debt, is being so generally signed that its purpose may be accomplished before the day ends.

This is another step in the strong effort of St. James congregation to convince Rev. Bishop James Schwebach that he can best serve the church by leaving Father Ambrose Murphy in La Crosse. Perhaps, too, it contains a little confession of financial delinquencies on the part of the congregation. However, His Reverence is known to place personal welfare of members ahead of purely economic considerations, and those who are interested in the petition declare that this activity will weigh with Bishop Schwebach only as evidence casting light upon the spiritual needs and welfare of his people. Generous and of kindly judgment, they say, none who knows the bishop doubts that, once he realizes the intense desire of St. James parish for the retention of Father Murphy, His Reverence will order the priest to continue his service here.

BELLIGERENTS SHALL PRESUME ARMED MERCHANTMEN PEACEFUL UNLESS EVIDENCE CONTRADICTS

ARMOR ON VESSEL NOT GOOD REASON TO ATTACK BOAT

Ruling on Conclusive Evidence Meant to Define Status of Armed Ship on the High Seas

NEUTRALS RELY ON CIRCUMSTANCES

Declares Neutrals May Presume That Armed Belligerent Is Meant for Aggression

WASHINGTON, April 26.

Warning is to be issued to Americans to refrain from traveling on certain armed ships, as soon as the administration can learn what vessels are under mandatory orders from the allied governments.

The state department has asked the allies to reveal what orders are issued to armed ships. If these orders carry a penalty for disobeying or are mandatory in any sense to ship commanders, this government plans to notify Americans and to warn them they are not immune if they travel on them.

These facts were revealed at the state department today apropos of the sentence in the armed ship memorandum made public, which read:

"Any person taking passage on such a vessel cannot expect immunity other than that accorded persons who are on board a warship."

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Belligerents should presume an armed merchantman is peaceful unless there is "conclusive evidence to the contrary."

This is the position of the United States, officially declared today by the state department.

Merely because an enemy merchant vessel is armed does not constitute sufficient reason for a belligerent to declare it a warship and to attack it regardless of the rights of persons aboard.

These points were announced to the world in a memorandum intended to make clear the American position on the general subject of armed ships.

The memorandum was aimed particularly to forestall any question Germany may offer as to what the American position is on "present methods" of submarine warfare.

The ruling as to conclusive evidence was intended to define the status of an armed ship on the high seas. In neutral waters, however, said the memorandum, the status would be decided "from all the circumstances of the case."

"A neutral government," says the statement, "may proceed upon the presumption that an armed merchant vessel of belligerent nationality is armed for aggression, while a belligerent should proceed on the presumption that the vessel is armed for protection."

The document agrees with the German position that vessels in government service intended for hunting submarines are warships. On the other hand, it disagrees with the German contention of a right to sink any armed merchantman on the assumption that it is necessarily armed for offensive purposes.

The note declares any enemy warship "may properly exercise force to compel surrender if an armed merchant ship is first."

TWO AMERICANS KILLED WHEN DODD'S CAVALRY DEFEATS 300 BANDITS

FREE EXAMINATION OF COUNTY CHESTS BY ALL PHYSICIANS

Tomorrow will Be Observed by County Medical Society as Public Health Day

EXPERT HERE FOR CONSULTING

Dr. George R. Ernst of Milwaukee Will Help Physicians and Speak in the Evening

La Crosse county physicians are testing out their stethoscopes today in preparation for the busiest day of their history tomorrow—"Public Health Day" for all of the county. Tomorrow any person in the county who takes a notion may go to any physician in the county and present himself for a complete physical examination with especial regard to the condition of his heart and lungs, without charge. And if he has a particularly complicated case which baffles the practitioner to whom he appears, he will also have the services of one of the best known tuberculosis experts in the state as a consultant. Dr. George R. Ernst of Milwaukee, head of that city's work against the white plague, will spend all of tomorrow in the city, his time at the disposal of the county medical society members for consultation during the day.

Big Mass Meeting

Tomorrow evening "Public Health Day" will be wound up by a big mass-meeting in the Congregational church, Seventh and Main streets, to be addressed by Dr. Ernst. Clubwomen of the city have been interested in the occasion, and a large attendance is promised through their efforts and the work of the county physicians.

"Public Health Day" is the spectacular method chosen by the physicians to present to the people the merits of a more intensive method of preventive medicine. The meeting tomorrow night and the examinations which will precede it are but the beginning of a campaign of education in preventive tactics, according to Dr. J. M. Furstman, chief of the city health department. Dr. Furstman has an array of figures, which he intends to present at the meeting to show that a great percentage of deaths in the city are due to neglect. It is argued that a person should be as scrupulous with his body as a whole as he is with his eyes and teeth, in other words that he make regular visits to his physician to ascertain his physical condition.

All Over State

The physicians of the county have joined themselves wholeheartedly to the plan of the state medical association for conducting educational medical meetings. Other counties have held or will hold similar meetings, each county having the option of choosing its own particular topic for its meeting.

MEAGER REPORTS SAY VILLISTAS LOST HEAVILY

RUN DOWN VILLA CLUE

Forces Active in Mexico Shortening and Strengthening Army's Communications Line

COLUMBUS, N. M., April 26.—Two United States soldiers were killed and several wounded in a battle with Villistas last Saturday, according to advices reaching here today. A column under Colonel Dodd of the Second cavalry brigade defeated about 300 Villistas in western Chihuahua. The bandits' losses are not yet known.

The meagre reports received here stated the Villistas apparently were several bands concentrated under four "generals." Dodd's men completely routed the Mexicans, pursuing them until nightfall. Many of the Villistas are believed to have been killed or wounded.

Kills Ambushing Mexican

In a personal encounter near Satevo, Lieutenant Graham of an advanced American detachment killed a Mexican who had ambushed and fired at him, according to a report here today. Officers on an incoming truck train also stated that they were fired on by snipers within three miles of the border south of Columbus.

Excepting the column running down the clue that Villa is in the Noncava district, all American military activity in Mexico was confined today to shortening and strengthening the line of supplies. Urgent need for hay and rough forage was indicated by reports that many horses have died from the exclusive grain diet.

Details of the hard riding by the American detachments in the height of the Villa chase continue to be received. Thirty-two troopers in Major Howze's column lost their mounts hard riding wearing out the horses. The bodies of the two American soldiers killed at Parral have been buried in Mexico. If relatives request it the bodies will be disinterred and brought back to the United States.

Believe Raid Frustrated

A daring Villista attempt to raid the American communication lines and possibly again attack a border town was believed today to have been frustrated by a defeat Col. Dodd administered to a force of bandits at Temosachic on Saturday.

SENATOR BENNETT OF VIROQUA OUT FOR OWEN'S PLAGE

Strong Philipp Man Announces Self as Candidate for Attorney General at Madison Meet

CONSERVATIVES GATHER TODAY

Committee of Hundred and Ten Assembles to Choose Man to Run Against La Follette

MADISON, Wis., April 26.—(Special.)—Among the early fruits of the stalwart gathering which assembled here today to select a candidate for United States senator to run against Senator La Follette, was the announcement by Senator J. Henry Bennett of Viroqua, that he would enter the primaries as a candidate for attorney general, to succeed Walter C. Owen.

The announcement caused considerable interest, as it is the first in the field for the republican primaries from the Philipp faction, although it has been accepted for some time that Governor Philipp would run to succeed himself. The stalwarts had put up no other candidate for state office, however. Senator Bennett was prominent in the last legislature through his fight for the central education board bill and other members strongly urged by the governor.

All Ready for Tussle

All was in readiness this morning for the convention of 110 conservative republicans who are to consider the United States senatorial situation this afternoon. Supporters of both Max C. Jeffris and John M. Whitehead, both of Janesville, and both senatorial aspirants, were on the ground last night doing all possible for their choice. The plan is to select one candidate who will oppose Senator Robert M. La Follette for the republican nomination in the September primaries.

The convention will be called to order in the assembly chamber this afternoon at 2 o'clock by George H. West of Milwaukee. It was stated this morning that A. P. Kletsch of Milwaukee, chairman of the republican state central committee, would not be present to call the meeting to order.

Most of the delegates visited the executive office today for a talk with Governor Philipp. It is claimed that the governor is taking no sides in the situation. There are some here today who claim that Max Jeffris will obtain the endorsement, but the friends of Senator Whitehead claim that this is impossible and have a list of votes which would apparently disprove the other claim.

No Platform Now

The Jeffris supporters were the first on the field. The Jeffris men began to arrive early Tuesday afternoon and it was not until the 5 o'clock train last night that the first Whitehead men appeared. It was first suggested that a platform might be adopted at this convention, but this rumor is generally discredited. It is said, however, that a resolution will be passed calling attention to Senator La Follette's frequent absences from Washington.

"My daughter was poisoned by salt and it turned into eczema, and from her hands to her elbows was one mass of red, burning, itching eruptions. It began with a rash which was of such a burning itching nature that at times she was nearly wild. For many weeks she could not put her hands in water and she could not sleep.

"She suffered intensely for several weeks and I tried wringing towels out of hot water and putting a rubber sheet across her, but she wasn't helped. The doctor said to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I did and the itching and burning left her, and I used four boxes of Cuticura Ointment together with the Cuticura Soap and she was completely healed." When Napoleon Was Wounded.

Napoleon, like almost all great military leaders, was wounded in course of his military career, though once only. This was before Ratisbon, on April 23, 1809. He was struck by a grape-shot ball, and received a flesh wound, which disconcerted him so little that he mounted his horse, wiping away the blood with a handkerchief. The ball was picked up by an officer, who treasured it so highly that it passed as an heirloom to his children and grandchildren. It now rests in the Musee at Paris.

ARTILLERY OPENS BOMBARDMENT OF AVOCOURT WOODS

PARIS, April 26.—An intense bombardment of Avocourt wood and Hill 204 by heavy German guns last night was reported in the official statement from the war office today, but no important infantry actions occurred on the Verdun front.

The bombardment was violent on the whole front west of the Meuse but attained its greatest intensity on the French left. In the Woivreux German howitzers played upon French positions around Haudromont and Ronvaux.

The Germans attempted to attack a small French post near Embermenil, in Lorraine, but were repulsed with heavy losses. Prisoners admit that the Germans also lost heavily in yesterday's attacks against the French salient at La Chapelotte.

North of the Alsne French troops took seventy-two prisoners in the course of yesterday's attack which resulted in the capture of a small wood south of Bois Des Buttes. Several German reconnoissances were dispersed on the Paisy and Troyon sectors.

Picturesque Clan Will Appear In High School Fete

In the play of Midsummer Night's Dream, the Amazon women are not of vital importance except from a picturesque point of view. In the pageant the Amazon band, composed of about twenty girls of warlike statue, will be led by their Queen Hippolyta and the Duke of Athens, to whom the queen is betrothed. They can be distinguished in the pageant by their short purple and white costumes and by their shields and spears, which they will carry.

THE ORIGIN AND HISTORY

The Amazons were an ancient legendary nation of women warriors, said to have lived in Pontus in Asia Minor, where they formed an independent kingdom under the government of a queen. They made numerous warlike excursions into Thrace, along the coast of Asia Minor, and among the islands of the Aegean.

The Amazons appear in connection with several Greek legends. One of the tasks imposed upon Hercules was to obtain possession of the girdle of the Amazon Queen, Hippolyta, who appears in "Midsummer Night's Dream." He was accompanied by his friend Theseus who had resolved to set out in search of adventures, in order to divert his mind from the death of his father. As sailing the Amazons before they had recovered from the attack of Hercules, he carried off their queen, whom he married. Theseus was now very happy indeed; but shortly after his betrothal, the Amazons invaded his country under the pretext of rescuing their kidnapped queen, and in the battle which ensued Hippolyta was accidentally wounded by an arrow and breathed her last in Theseus's arms.

In works of arts, combats between the Amazons and Greeks are placed on the same level. The belief in their existence, however, having been once accepted and introduced into the national poetry and art, it became necessary to surround them as far as possible with the appearance of not unnatural things. Their occupation was hunting and war; their arms the bow, spear, axe and half shield and in early art a helmet, the model before the Greek mind having apparently been the Coddess Athena. In the latter art they approached the

WEATHER

U.S. Weather Bureau

Sunrise tomorrow, 5:04 a. m.
Sunset tomorrow, 7:02 p. m.
Temperatures Yesterday
High, 56; Low, 43; Precipitation, .12.

Forecasts
For Wisconsin: Partly cloudy and continued cool tonight and Thursday. Probably frost west portion tonight. Moderate to fresh northerly winds.
For Minnesota: Generally fair tonight and Thursday. Somewhat warmer Thursday.
For Iowa: Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday. Probably frost north west and central portions tonight. Somewhat warmer Thursday west portion.

Weather Conditions
The high pressure area overlies the country from the Mississippi river to the Rocky mountains and the temperature is generally lower south of the Dakotas and in the central Mississippi valley.

The pressure is relatively low throughout the East and South but there is no well defined storm center in those states. The pressure is lowest in southern Arizona.

Showers have occurred from the Mississippi valley to the north Atlantic coast and continues at a few widely scattered stations east of the Rocky mountains this morning.

Fair weather is indicated for this section tonight and Thursday without much change in temperature. Frost is probably tonight if the weather clears.

Stations	Flood	Stage	Height	Change
St. Paul	14	14.0	-0.2
Red Wing	14	12.7	-0.2
La Crosse	12	13.2	-0.5
Prairie du Chien	18	15.7	-0.1
St. Louis	30	24.1	-0.6

River Forecast
The river is falling at Stillwater and Chippewa Falls but continues rising in the Mississippi river from St. Paul to Keokuk. It will rise 2 to 3 above Reeds Landing during the next 24 hours and then probably begin to fall at St. Paul, if no heavy rains. In the lower section the rise will be more rapid and will probably continue to Saturday and a 14 foot stage is not improbable at that time.

The Searchlight

BUTTER FROM WHEY
The whey from cheese factories has ordinarily been either thrown away or used for hog food. Chemists have recently ascertained that whey contains a small percentage of butter which is worth conserving. A cheese factory in Wisconsin has been equipped with a special machine for making whey butter, and expects to secure thousands of pounds annually. While it takes 1,000 pounds of whey to produce a pound of butter, the saving becomes quite worth while in any factory handling as much as 10,000 pounds of milk per day. Whey butter is of good quality and has become popular for table use in the vicinity where it is being made. It is sold a little cheaper than creamery butter.

"PORK" SYSTEM MUST GO

Public sentiment against the "pork" system in congress is growing, with increased understanding of the tremendous waste it involves. Congressmen are beginning to be measured in their districts, not so much by the amount of "pork" they bring home, as by their records on matters of national importance.

The conscience of congress, stimulated by the change in public sentiment, is becoming more sensitive. The combination behind the rivers and harbors bill had considerable difficulty in getting their thirty-nine million dollar bill through this year, the margin being narrower than ever before. The bill may yet find such active opposition in the senate as to prevent its enactment, or to cut down its extravagances.

But the fight against waste in rivers and harbors appropriations is not merely obstructive. Representative Frear of Wisconsin, who began the battle against "pork" almost single-handed three years ago, has offered a bill that is constructively sound. Its adoption would put an end to the spending of public money on worthless waterway projects. It makes rivers and harbors appropriations part of the general budget to be passed on by the appropriations committee. All projects are to be referred to a national waterways commission for expert examination. Unprofitable ventures are to be discontinued, instead of being used as a sinkhole for annual appropriations.

Some such measure as this must be the means finally of putting an end to the distribution of waterways "pork". It will bring about a comprehensive survey of the present condition of all projects by a commission removed as far as possible from local and political considerations, and seeking only to ascertain the precise status of each project as to economic desirability.

In the other branch of "pork" distribution, the public building game, a similar opportunity to put every building project on its own merits is afforded by a bill recently introduced by Congressman James of Michigan. Its character is sufficiently indicated by its title:

"A bill requiring all public building bills to be submitted to the secretary of the treasury for investigation and report as to whether proposed buildings and sites are needed and the expenditure justified, and as to the lowest cost at which buildings found necessary may be erected with economy and efficiency."

The Secretary of the Treasury would have to maintain a corps of inspectors to visit the various communities aspiring to government buildings, to make complete and careful report on the question whether it would pay the government to erect buildings, and if so at what cost. In short, the government would make precisely the same kind of an investigation that any ordinarily prudent individual would make who contemplated the erection of a business building of any kind.

"Pork" is not to be abolished without great difficulty, but we are slowly moving in the direction of honesty in public appropriations.—Minneapolis Journal.

THE PRICE OF GASOLINE

A new explanation has been sent out of the high price of gasoline. The refining process is causing the accumulation of great quantities of kerosene which cannot be sold. Hence, the gasoline yield of 20 to 40 per cent must provide the whole profit and the kerosene must be sold at a loss. The explanation is plausible except for the fact that the kerosene as well as the gasoline probably yields a profit to the refiners. At any rate, increased oil dividends have recently been announced in several cases.

China is our best buyer of kerosene abroad and since freights are very high and boats hard to get, this trade is being appreciably interfered with. Gasoline, on the other hand, finds purchasers faster than it can be made, and every effort is being put forth to increase the gasoline output in the distillation process.

The real solution is the more general use of the kerosene engine. Many farmers of this state are using kerosene in their engines, manufacturers having devised a plan by which kerosene can be used more economically than gasoline at present prices. The use of this engine and the adoption of kerosene in automobile operation would make it highly popular, even though the oil lamp is rapidly being consigned to the scrap heap as a defunct form of lighting.—The Milwaukee Journal.

STRANGE PLEA TO BE PRESENTED FOR MATERNAL SLAYER

NEW YORK, April 26.—Mrs. Ida Sniffen Walters Rogers, on trial for the murder of her two nameless babies, "Jackie" and "Lorinda," may take the stand in her own behalf.

Unless the court rules out the testimony of Dr. Greene Hammond, alienist, will point out to a jury of married men how the trials of approaching motherhood work strange changes in the minds of women. It is one of the contentions of the defense that this peculiar working of nature was one of the elements that drove Mrs. Rogers to poison the two children of her affinity lover.

Wasted Talents

The train robber suddenly appeared as many of the passengers were preparing to retire for the night. "Come, shell out!" he demanded, as he stood towering above an eastern clergyman, who had just finished a devout prayer.

The minister looked at him sadly for a moment and then said: "If I had such energetic fellows as you to pass the plate now and then I might have something to give you."

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

A Brilliant Genius

On one occasion a man helped Edison to erect a miniature electric light plant, and when the work was finished he was so delighted that he said to the great inventor:

"Mr. Edison, after working with you like this, I believe I could put up an electric light plant myself."

"Could you, indeed?" said Edison.

"Yes, I believe I could," replied the amateur; but suddenly his face clouded. "There's only one thing that beats me," he added doubtfully.

"What's that?" inquired Edison.

"Well, I don't quite see," answered the budding electrical engineer, looking at the glowing bulb, "how you get the oil along the wires!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

All Doubled Up

"Spell your name!" said the court clerk sharply.

The witness began: "O, double T, I, double U, E, double L, double—"

"Wait!" ordered the clerk; "begin again!"

The witness replied: "O, double T, I, double U, E, double L, double U, double O—"

"Your honor!" roared the clerk. "I beg that this man be committed for contempt of court!"

"What is your name?" asked the judge.

My name, your honor, is Ottiwell Wood, and I spell it O, double T, I, double U, E, double L, double U, double O, D.

Thoughtful

They were a very saving old couple and as a result they had a beautifully furnished house.

One day the old woman missed her husband.

"Joseph, where are you?" she called out.

"I'm resting in the parlor," came the reply.

"What, on the sofa?" cried the old woman, horrified.

"No, on the floor."

"Not on that grand carpet!" came in tones of anguish.

"No; I've rolled it up!"

A Foolish Question

School Mistress—Well, Freddie, dear, what did you learn yesterday?

New Boy (after deep thought)—You ought to know—you taught me.

No Surrender

Voice from Below—Are you a good girl now, dear?

Defiant Daughter of the House (sent upstairs for naughtiness)—No! I't 'pit on your hat, and I'se 'pit on your coat, and now I'se waiting for more 'pit.—Passing Show.

Chance for a Hug

"Men have such queer slang. Now this article speaks continually of the main squeeze. Doesn't that sound nonsensical?"

"Oh, I don't know," said the other girl. "Main squeeze sounds rather nice to me. I think I'd like to meet one of them."

ANTOFAGASTA

If you would understand the mighty power of the dollar, pay a visit to Antofagasta. Not that Antofagasta is a city of skyscrapers, or free libraries in the Grecian style, or any of the other common monuments to wealth. The dollar shows its might in this baked Chilean seaport by inducing people to live there.

Antofagasta lies on the borders of Atacama desert, and ships borax and nitrate and metal ores to the rest of the world. That is her only visible excuse for existence; an unprejudiced jury might even rule that one out in a less commercial age. Some 30,000 people call Antofagasta home, and the visitor hopes that they are all rapidly getting rich.

This must have been the place where the poet indulged in his celebrated reflection about the abundance of water and the lack of anything to drink. The whole Pacific ocean batters at the door, creeps up the coast in great white combers, obtrudes itself over most of the landscape, fills the air with the salt odor of spray; and yet Antofagasta has to bring her drinking water through hundreds of miles of pipes from the faraway mountains. She is one of the driest towns on earth. Her harborage is far from desirable, requiring good seamanship to make a landing, but such is her strategic position commercially that three nations, Peru, Bolivia and Chile, once went to war over a dispute concerning her.

The traveler approaches Antofagasta from the sea. The things that catch the eye first are a great white anchor painted on a hill rising back of the city, to guide ships past the rocks, and the big signs of the exporting companies that make the city's wealth. The next feature to claim attention is a crowd of clamorous boatmen offering to negotiate the doubtful business of landing at a price commensurate with the most exaggerated risks.

There are no sights to be seen in Antofagasta, which is in itself something of a claim to renown. As though to make up for the unprofitableness of nature, the people are particularly hospitable to the stranger within their gates. They are a hustling and amiable community who deserve a better geographical fate.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

HOW HE PROPOSED

BY SUSAN E. CLAGETT

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

In the half light of an October evening the room was charming. To the man coming from the frosty outside air it was full of luxurious comfort. Surrounding all was the subtle breath of refinement that makes possible a harmonious whole.

The man paused an instant, his eyes taking in every familiar detail; then they rested upon the woman standing before the open fire.

"The fates are indeed kind," she said as he advanced toward her. "I was beginning to think myself forgotten."

"Never that," he answered, a smile lighting his face. "Think it the exigencies of business, anything, but not that."

As he spoke he pushed an easy chair nearer the fire and sank into it with a sigh of content. "I have lost much, I know, you who have it always, cannot appreciate the charm, the delight of such a room as this to a weary man. It is always before me as a haven of rest and has so tantalized me this day that I was forced to yield to my mood although my desk is piled high with unfinished work."

"I am glad it was so," she answered cordially. "Of my many friends, your presence is the most acceptable."

"Are you not mistaken?" he questioned gravely. "It has seemed to me that I have lately been on the outside, a position that has so annoyed me. I hoped for just such a chance as this. It is months since we have had a quiet talk together."

"Perhaps you have not sought the opportunity," she responded, taking a fan from the table and holding it so as to screen her eyes from the fire-light.

"It was never necessary before—why now?" he asked in some amazement.

She laughed.

"You are cultivating your imagination, or perhaps you are not well. It takes little to make one suspicious under the latter circumstances."

"I am perfectly well and I have never been suspicious in my life. The change is in you, not in me."

"And my offense? Tell me what it is." And she looked at him with a flash of amusement in her eyes.

"I cannot. I am intangible. It is as if you had shut a door in my face and said, 'Thus far, but no farther.'"

"A figment of your brain," she answered lightly. What have you been writing lately? A story? If so, I suspect this room has figured in it and incidentally its mistress."

"I would have no skill in portraying the subtle workings of your woman's mind," he replied with some bitterness. "I will confess to many faults, but at least I am honest and not given to subterfuge."

"A suggestion that I am?"

"A woman feels privileged to hide herself in the mood of the moment, does she not?"

She dropped her fan and looked at him in silence. Then she said gently:

"Your voice sounds angry. Are you trying to provoke a quarrel? Do not. I will not quarrel with you. For some reason you are not yourself and I feel that I am provoking an irritant instead of helping you pass a restful and quiet hour."

"Then why do you always fence with me?" he asked impatiently. "It has been this way for months past, but it is unlike you. I value our friendship. The privilege of coming and going as I will has for years been my chief pleasure. But this 'rift within the rift' that you will not explain away leaves me stranded. Our old time friendship is gone. Do you wonder that I make a fight for it, that I resent, bitterly resent, this something that has come between us?"

"Believe me, I have been most unfortunate if my manner has conveyed such an impression," she said slowly. "Jack," with a swift glance into his gloomy face. "For how long have we been friends?"

"For more years than I care to remember," he responded promptly.

She rarely called him by his name and he was conscious of a keen delight in the unaccustomed word coming from her lips. He shaded his eyes from the firelight and looked closely at her. There was a note in her voice he had never heard before, but darkness had fallen and her face was in shadow.

"I have always thought my name rather a good sort, but I never realize its possibilities until I hear you use it. Why don't you do so oftener?"

"It is my reserve weapon," she replied with a soft laugh. "When you are as bearish as you have been this evening it is the only thing that creates a diversion."

"Then I must be an amiable kind of fellow ordinarily since I hear it so rarely. I will foster the trait hereafter if it will induce you to use it."

He stretched out his hand as if to touch her but turned instead toward the fire. Once he seemed about to speak, but checked himself.

Quietly she watched him, but there was a nervous tremble of her lips nearer to tears than laughter.

"I have been a fool," he exclaimed abruptly.

She let the accusation pass in silence.

"And a coward."

"You are beginning to see how unreasonable you are?" she asked as she raised her fan to hide a smile.

"No. On that point my opinion is

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

NEWS NOTES MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Can a movie picture be made that will be funny without at the same time being vulgar? After looking over some of the so called comedies that are being turned out in such large numbers a neutral observer might doubt if this could be done. Some directors seem to think that as long as plenty of ples are thrown, there is nothing further to be desired. Repulsive table manners are played up on the screen, and we are asked to laugh. Some unoffensive old gentleman is knocked down or run over, and they tell us that this is humor. A few persons, however, see nothing worth laughing at in such scenes. We believe the number is growing, and that a nauseated public will eventually demand that all comedies be as clean, for instance, as those in which Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew appear. May the day come quickly.

They Could Have Called Him Criminal

Ever since that historic day when Arthur James reached down into his Webster and brought forth the word "eloquent", remarkable words have been applied to actors who play the heavy parts. It remains, however, for the Fox press department to reach the acme of description. This department refers to Stuart Holmes as "the cold, cruel, cunning, crafty, churlish, cloven-footed, caustic, caloused, cross, carking, curt, coarse, calculating villain."

"Moment Before"

For Miss Frederick
Having enjoyed her "wild, barefooted existence" in "Audrey," Pauline Frederick was enthusiastic when told that she was to play a gypsy in her next Famous Players production on the Paramount program, "The Moment Before," which is based on Israel Zangwill's play of that name. But, remembering the beach nettles which she encountered in Jacksonville while there on her last trip, she sighed with relief when informed that her particular gypsy was not of the bare-footed variety.

Immediately after finishing "Elysive Isabel" and "Spring Time and unchanged, I was thinking of the loneliness of my life. The friendship on my side has always been make believe, for I love you, Margaret. I think I have always loved you. It is a commonplace way of putting it, but then I am a commonplace man. Any one else could do it better than I. I would have told you long ago, but I was afraid that my doing so would end everything."

"I think you should also add 'cruel' and 'selfish.' The words would be applicable," she replied with hardly concealed bitterness.

The years had risen in a flash before her; years in which she had trained herself in the difficult art of friendship when her heart was crying against such dissimulation. And now, to know she could have been spared it all! The pain and wounded pride, the suffering she had so successfully hidden when her spirit was crushed to the earth! In keen resentment the woman rose.

Something in her voice again attracted his attention, but her face was still in shadow. He leaned forward and gave the fire a vicious kick. The sparks flew up the chimney and the log burst into a blaze of light.

"I am in an unlucky humor this afternoon else I would not have jeopardized my greatest pleasure. Will you forget it and let me come as heretofore?"

"Forget it? No." She replied with deliberation. "I see no reason for changing the habit of years because a mood forced a confession from you. I well understand it was not voluntary. In all frankness, I think you are laboring under a delusion. You anger me. It is you who will not understand. There is no little misapprehension in my mind that I ask you to give me an explicit answer at once."

"To what?"

He rose from his chair and faced her in angry amazement. His eyes flashed and his voice was not well under control as he said:

"To what? Was there ever such a woman! Surely my meaning is plain enough to ask 'what,' under the circumstances."

"And yet I do ask it, Jack. You have talked and talked. At first accusing me. Then you dropped into a sort of monologue about friendship and love, and—that is all."

"Do you mean me to understand that I have not asked you to marry me?"

She shook her head.

"You did not even suggest it." He gave a short laugh.

"I have always heard that this sort of thing shows how much of a fool a man can make of himself, but I never imagined how big a one he could be."

"Well?"

"Well, I am waiting for my answer."

"But you haven't asked me anything—yet."

"Good heavens! How many times do you want to hear it?" he exclaimed in exasperation.

"Once will be often enough," she answered in a voice quivering with restrained tenderness.

He leaned toward her, looking steadily into the amused eyes.

"Will you be my wife, Margaret? Is that what you want me to say? Do the words make my meaning any plainer?"

She drew her hand against her cheek with a little laugh.

"Why didn't you say that before dear? Surely after all these years you owed it to me."

KLINGE-NIEMEYER
Miss Lillian Niemeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Niemeyer, 110 South Twenty-fourth street, became the bride of John J. F. Klinge, also of La Crosse, at the parsonage of St. Paul's Universalist church at ten o'clock this morning. Rev. George R. Longbrake united the couple, using the ring ceremony of the Universalist church. The bride was attended by Miss Ella Gage, and wore a traveling suit of dark blue, with a corsage bouquet of pink roses. Emil Niemeyer, brother of the bride, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Klinge left on the noon Burlington for a trip through the west.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB
The members of the Twentieth Century club were entertained in the lecture room of the Public Library yesterday afternoon by the Mesdames David O. Coate and William M. Collier. At the business session arrangements for the Baby Week tea to be given at the La Crosse club Saturday afternoon were discussed. The matter of representation at the district convention in Sparta May 16th and 17th also came up for action and it was decided that any who desired to attend will be recognized as delegates. It is probable that at least eight or ten members of the club will attend the convention.

At the meeting yesterday no action was taken in the matter of purchasing a home for the club, as the committee was unable to meet out-of-town parties for a conference, as was expected.

The period following the business meeting, usually given up to the study of the lesson, was devoted to a discussion of art by Prof. David O. Coate of the state normal school. Professor Coate told of the work of the local art association during the past week and gave a gallery talk on the pictures now on exhibit at the library, which was most enthusiastically received by the club women. During a short intermission refreshments were served by the hostesses, following which Professor Coate continued his talk.

For the afternoon the ballroom and the rose room of the hotel were converted into a floral garden—golden rod, state flower of Missouri, and southern smilax being dominant.

Aiding Mrs. Louis Seubert on the reception committee were Mrs. C. C. Adams, Mrs. F. Clark Brown, Mrs. Harry C. Bly, Mrs. O. D. Batchlor, Mrs. Wolsey W. Collins, Mrs. Silas F. Catchings, Mrs. H. B. Cantey, Mrs. J. Strong Foster, Mrs. Horace M. Hovey and Mrs. Solon Palmer.

The Southland club is composed of women now residing in New York who are natives of the south or the wives of southerners. One of its chief objects is to bring into closer relationship people of the north and south. Mrs. Simon Baruch is president of the club.

May Have Woman Candidate For President Of U.S.

CHICAGO, April 26.—A woman candidate for president of the United States is a possibility unless republican and democratic national conventions incorporate a suffrage plank in the platform, it was announced this afternoon.

The woman's party convention, to be held in Chicago simultaneously with the republican progressive conventions early in June, may take this action, Miss Alice Paul, national chairman of the Congressional Union, announced.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch of New York and Sara Baird Field of San Francisco are possible candidates, Miss Paul said.

Chicago suffragettes planned today to take care of 40,000 women delegates to the convention here. Hotel accommodations have been exhausted by reservations of delegates to the other conventions.

A parade and other demonstrations of suffragette power are planned. The women leaders will ask the republican and progressive conventions to hear them.

EMERGENCY RECIPES

Spring Fruit Cream.—Peel and wash two dozen stalks of rhubarb, put in stewpan with sugar to make quite sweet; cook until like marmalade. When cooked, add a pint of rich cream; dissolve in a little milk one-half ounce of granulated gelatin, stir it in the marmalade and pour into a form. Set it in ice several hours before it is wanted and serve with cream. Add the dissolved gelatin while the marmalade is hot.

Excellent Buns.—In the morning take one cupful of bread sponge and let it rise until 3 o'clock. Then add one-half cupful of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of lard, three-fourths cupful of warm water, and enough flour to make a nice dough. Knead it well and let it rise until 6 o'clock. Make into buns the size of an egg and let rise overnight; bake the first thing in the morning.

Sailors' Duff.—Beat up one egg, add one cupful of molasses, two tablespoonfuls of melted lard, and one and one-half cupfuls of flour; beat all well together, then add one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in one-half cupful of hot water. Turn into a greased mold, cover with a greased paper and steam steadily for one and one-half hours. Serve with hot milk or any preferred sweet sauce.—The People's Home Journal.

Suffrage Must Come Through Political Agencies

The political aspects of woman suffrage will receive much attention at the Mississippi Valley conference in Minneapolis May 7-10. Women are coming to realize that though woman suffrage is by no means wholly a political question, it must be settled mainly through political agencies. Either the state legislature first and then the voters must pass upon it, or the congress of the United States. To do effective suffrage work it is necessary to understand political conditions and the program of the conference will include many addresses on this general topic. Organization in its various aspects and the lessons learned from woman suffrage states will also have place on the program. The motto of the convention is "How to Win—By Organization for Active Citizenship."

Says Old Maids are Product of Christianity

BOSTON, Mass., April 26.—"Old maids are the products of Christianity, and that is why you have so many professional women, especially doctors, here," declared Dr. Mary Stone, Chinese missionary, in an address before members of the Medical Women's society. "We cannot educate women doctors in China because they generally marry before they complete their course. They are engaged at birth and are sent to live in the family of their intended husband. Their life there is practically slavery. Their sole idea of life is to be some man's spouse, and few of them dream of facing the world themselves and fighting a lone battle." Miss Stone is herself a native Chinese woman, who received her education in America and returned to work among her own people. She is now "brushing up" at Johns Hopkins university.

16,000 Women Back of Iowa Clean-up Campaign

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 26.—Governor George W. Clarke, at the request of the Federated Women's clubs of Iowa, designated the week beginning Monday as "Clean-up Week" in Iowa.

Sixteen thousand women are behind the movement, inspired by devotion to the public welfare.

The governor says "They are anxious to establish higher ideals, better civic standards, better sanitary conditions; to minimize danger from fires, to make homes of the state and their surroundings more inviting and beautiful."

The people of the state are co-operating with the women in the "clean-up" movement and mayors of cities, newspapers and public officials generally are aiding.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 26.—Nurses from all over the United States are attending the convention of the National Public Health association, which opened here Tuesday. It is one of the largest medical gatherings of the year, and many medical experts will address the meetings. The convention will be in session until next Wednesday.

Thin Folks Who Want to Get Fat

Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More

"I'd certainly give most anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman. Such a result is not impossible, despite past failures. Most thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are, when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood, much of the fat and flesh producing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy, normal amount of fat, the nutritive processes must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them. This can probably best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a careful combination of six splendid assimilative agents. Taken with meals they mix with the food to turn the sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect has been in many cases reported remarkable. Reported gains of from ten to twenty-five pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless. Sargol is sold by Hoeschler Bros., and other druggists everywhere and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

NOTE.—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied.—It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Richmond Editor In Appreciation Of Fr. Murphy

(From New Richmond News and Republican-Voice)

The prospective transfer for Father Murphy to Prairie du Chien has raised a great commotion in and out of his own church circles in La Crosse, and Bishop Schwabach has been fairly deluged with remonstrances against the change and with petitions asking for a reconsideration of the matter and that Father Murphy may be retained in his present parish. To date, however, these petitions and remonstrances have been without avail.

These remonstrances and petitions are not against the coming to La Crosse of Father O'Toole, of course, but against the removal of Father Murphy from that city.

A Chippewa Falls Boy Originally

Father Murphy hails from Chippewa Falls. For the past twenty-eight years he has been the pastor of St. James' parish, the leading Catholic parish on the north side of La Crosse. This parish he has built up spiritually, numerically, financially, and he has wielded a powerful influence for good that has been felt in many ways throughout the city. Father Murphy has for years been at the forefront of every uplift movement launched in the Gateway city. He has served as president of the La Crosse branch of the Humane society, and been one of the most active factors for years. He is an orator of the first order and his activities and influence have spread far beyond the confines of his parish and his city.

The writer has for years prized Father Murphy as a close personal friend, has for years been an admirer of him as clergyman, as a citizen and as a man. Never yielding an iota from his firmly established beliefs nor in his loyalty to his conscience and to his convictions, he has always been a most liberal and tolerant man, a man of the people, a man always willing to give and take—a man of the very highest ideals. Father Murphy in debate is as keen as a brier, his wit is spontaneous, instantaneous; in repartee he is chain lightning or a forty-two centimeter gun, as occasion demands, and in exceptional cases he oratorically scalps his opponents. Years ago, on the north side in La Crosse there was the Franklin club, a local forum in which was discussed all manner of questions, political and otherwise, local, state and national—possibly it is still in existence—Father Murphy was one of its active members, and when Father Murphy was to be one of the debaters the S. R. O. sign was unrivaled on the outer walls.

When the Church Went

The writer then doing newspaper work in La Crosse, remembers well one particularly wild night on the North side, when in the midst of a veritable cloudburst and an almost continuous cannonade of thunder and lightning the spire of Father Murphy's church, St. James, was struck by lightning and the structure was burned to the ground. Father Murphy was about the only one of the great throng of spectators, most of whom were drenched to the skin by the downpour of rain, who was not excited. Many of the people expressed to Father Murphy their sympathy over the loss of the church. Father Murphy replied that there was no occasion for feeling sorry for him, but rather for the people of the parish who must pitch right in and help him build a new and bigger and finer church, something that they really needed and had needed for years. And the people did that very thing. They responded most generously. The ruins were not cold before plans for the new church were well under way, and the new St. James is not only one of the finest churches in La Crosse, but it is a testimonial of the love and affection of the people for Father Murphy.

Father Murphy's ability as a linguist is said to be responsible for his transfer to Prairie du Chien. He speaks German and French quite as fluently as he does English, and for years he has preached regularly at stated intervals in French at St. James'. St. Gabriel's in Prairie du Chien is said to be one of the largest and most important parishes in the diocese of La Crosse, and at the bishop's residence it was stated that the transfer of Father Murphy to St. Gabriel's was therefore of the nature of a promotion. However, that fact does not appear to lessen the desire of the La Crosse people to retain Father Murphy in their city.

A Promotion for Father O'Toole

If Father O'Toole goes from Ellsworth to La Crosse the change will be a very handsome promotion for him, but the news of his transfer will be as unwelcome to the people of Ellsworth and throughout this region where he is so well and favorably known as is the prospect of Father Murphy's removal from La Crosse to the people of that city. But in La Crosse Father O'Toole will find a wider field for his many talents, which are among much the same lines as those of Father Murphy. Father O'Toole has always interested himself in all uplift and betterment movements, he is an orator of far more than local renown, and to his new field he will carry the best wishes of a host of friends and admirers, not only from his home city, but all over this region.

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y. — "For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I was getting worse every day. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired, I could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, but I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving from the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation." — Mrs. JOHN A. KOENIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say they are necessary when they are not. Letter after letter comes to the Pinkham Laboratory, telling how operations were advised and were not performed; or, if performed, did no good, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed.

If you want advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

SLIDES DUG OUT AND CANAL IS OPENED AGAIN

The canal government that has not strengthened itself while the canal was idle. The commissary department, which has built up an immense business in fresh meat is laying out a pasture of 40,000 acres. The sea going dredge Carribean has been adapted for use as a cattle boat. In this vessel native cattle will be brought in, and then fattened on the government pastures. The commissary department already uses 800 head monthly, and the demand is steadily growing.

The health department is also busy. It may be said to have practically eliminated malaria and yellow fever from the canal zone, and is now turning its attention more particularly to bubonic plague. The quarantine, of course, is a pretty certain guard against this terrible disease, but the canal zone is in constant touch with infected ports by reason of the traffic passing through the canal, and the health officials are determined to take no chances. Rats are the great carriers of bubonic plague. Hence all the government buildings have been made rat proof. But that is not all. Recently the edict went forth that no chickens were to be kept within the limits of the canal zone. There was a howl of protest from the employees, many of whom kept a few chickens on their premises. They loudly asserted that the anti-chicken proclamation was a violation of individual rights. The government was polite, but firm. It issued a long statement explaining that rats were above all fond of chickens, and were invariably found where chickens were kept. It would be absurd to risk an epidemic of bubonic plague for the sake of a few eggs and broilers. So now the chicken has disappeared finally and completely from the canal zone.

Troops Pour into Zone

When Governor Goethals returned to the United States not long ago, he said that the defenses of the canal zone made it safe from any attack. With international complications arising both to east and to west of us, and only one real first-class navy to defend both coasts, the safety of the Panama canal is a most important consideration. Its coast and harbor defenses have long been considered very adequate, but army officers have asserted that it was far from impregnable by land. More troops, they declared to be necessary, and troops have been pouring into the canal zone in small detachments for nearly a year. A few weeks ago a squadron of the Twelfth cavalry reached the canal zone from Galveston. They are the first mounted troops to be stationed at the canal. The second battalion of the Fourth Field artillery soon followed them. The canal garrison now includes all of the three main branches of the service, and is generally conceded to be strong enough for its purpose. Owing to the nature of the country, and the strong coast defenses, the taking of the Panama canal by land would be difficult under any circumstances. There are, however, stretches of open country, reaching north and west from the zone over which an invading army could advance with great rapidity, and troops are needed to guard these.

In Better Shape

The canal has been restored to working order, and is in better trim than ever before; but there is an immense bill to be footed. While the waterway has been closed to traffic, all the expense of maintaining the great establishment on the zone, as well as that of the dredging operations, has gone steadily forward. For

A Fine Aid For Mother-to-be

We are all greatly indebted to those who tell their experiences. And among the many things which we read about and are of immediate importance to the expectant mother, is a splendid external remedy called "Mother's Friend." This is applied over the muscles of the stomach. It is deeply penetrating in its influence. Mothers everywhere tell of its soothing effect, how it allays pains incident to stretching of cords, ligaments and muscles. They tell of restful comfort, of calm, peaceful nights, an absence of those distressing peculiarities to the period of expectancy, relief from morning sickness, no more of that apprehension with which so many young women's minds become burdened. It is a splendid help. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" from your nearest druggist. Ask your husband to get it for you. Then write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 408 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a very handsome and instructive book. It is filled with suggestive ideas of great help to all women interested in the subject of maternity. And best of all are some letters from mothers that are real inspirations. Write today.

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—Many German officers are directing the Guatemalan revolution, seeking the overthrow of President Estrada Cabrera, it was learned here today, and Japanese agents are supplying arms and ammunition. Three columns of revolutionists are in the field. They are under the leadership of Gen. Isidoro Valdez and General Ignacio Toledo and have made considerable progress.

The liberal and conservative leaders have united in the revolutionary movement. Their platform contains a demand for labor and land reforms and improved educational facilities.

The Mexican government has learned from trustworthy sources that reports that General Felix Diaz is in Guatemala seeking support for a revolution he is to start in Mexico, are without foundation.

SOUTH AMERICA TOLD OF ALLEGED INSULT TO PERU

LIMA, Peru, April 26.—The Peruvian minister of foreign affairs today dispatched to all South American governments a detailed statement of the alleged insult offered to Peru by Secretary McAdoo's international high commission.

The statements recited the fact that arrangements had been made for the elaborate entertainment of the visitors from the United States at great expense but that the McAdoo party departed a few hours after reaching Callao without satisfactory reason. The newspapers announced that all South American republics were officially informed of the incident in the belief that President Wilson would be forced to make some sort of an apology for the action of the McAdoo party.

Dispatches from Chile today said that the Chilean press joins with the press of Peru in denouncing the incident here.

WORLD'S GREATEST PAPER MILLS CLOSED PLANT IS FLOODED

MARINETTE, Wis., April 26.—The Kimberly-Clark plant at Niagara Wis., sixty miles north of here, the largest paper mill in the world, was closed and the entire city flooded by the rising Menominee river. About $100,000 damage has been done in the little village of Niagara alone by the rains which have lasted for a week and still continued today.

One home has been washed away. Twenty others, which are in danger of going, have been weighted down with rocks. A pulp paper shed was washed away with a loss of thousands of dollars worth of valuable material.

Tea, Coffee and Children

It would be difficult for any parent to find a physician of modern education who would contend that coffee and tea are not harmful, especially to growing children.

The fact remains, however, that many parents give these beverages to their little folks and allow their use in older children at a time when physical and mental development is the most rapid.

The drug, caffeine, in coffee and tea retards growth and interferes with school progress. Disturbances of eyesight, headaches, nervousness, irritability, indigestion and other ills appear in many, seemingly without cause, and the damage often occurs at the most impressionable period of life.

No parent should permit the use of coffee and tea in the growing young; for the men and women of tomorrow will be what the parent of today makes the children by wise upbringing.

Children as well as adults need an invigorating, warm drink, and in a growing number of homes it has been found that the most wholesome table beverage is

INSTANT POSTUM

This pure food-drink, made of prime wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses, is readily prepared at the table, a cup at a time.

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in a cup of hot water, with cream and sugar added makes an attractive, healthful drink, and its pleasant flavor wins children and usually the parents.

doubtful," the memorandum declares.

The document, prepared more than a month ago at President Wilson's direction, was intended to inform the world powers just where the United States stands on the subject of armed ships, inasmuch as Germany declined to exempt them from her submarine warfare.

The text of the memorandum follows:

"By the direction of the president, a memorandum was prepared during March, 1916, in regard to the status of armed merchant vessels in neutral ports and on the high seas. This memorandum is now made public as a statement of this government's attitude on that subject.

"The status of an armed merchant vessel of a belligerent nation is to be considered from two points of view.

"First, from that of a neutral when the vessel enters its ports; and, second from that of an enemy when the vessel is on the high seas.

"First—An armed merchant vessel in neutral port.

"1—It is necessary for a neutral government to determine the status of an armed merchant vessel of the belligerent nationality which enters its jurisdiction in order that the government may protect itself from responsibility for the destruction of life and property by permitting its ports to be used as bases of hostile operations by belligerent warships.

"2—If the vessel carries a commission or order issued by a belligerent government, and directing it under penalty to conduct aggressive operations, or if it is conclusively shown to have conducted such operations, it should be regarded and treated as a warship.

"3—If sufficient evidence is wanting, a neutral government, in order to safeguard itself from liability for failure to preserve its neutrality, may reasonably presume from the fact the status of armed merchant vessels which frequent its waters.

"There is no settled rule of international law as to sufficiency of evidence to establish such a presumption. As a result a neutral government must decide for itself the sufficiency of the evidence which it requires to determine the character of the vessel. For the guidance of its port officers and other officials may, therefore, declare a standard of evidence, but such standards may be changed on account of the general conditions of naval warfare or modified on account of the circumstances of a particular case. These changes and modifications may be made at any time during the progress of the war, since the determination of the status of an armed merchantmen in neutral waters, may affect the liability of a neutral government.

"4—Second, An armed merchant vessel in the high seas.

"1—It is necessary for a belligerent warship to determine the status of an armed merchant vessel of an enemy encountered on the high seas, since the rights of life and property of belligerents and neutrals on board the vessels may be impaired if its status is that of an enemy warship.

Must Respect Evidence

"2—The determination of warlike character must rest in no case upon presumption, but upon conclusive evidence because the responsibility for the destruction of life and property depends upon the actual facts of the case and cannot be avoided or lessened by a standard of evidence which a belligerent may announce as creating a presumption of hostile character. On the other hand, to safeguard himself from possible liability for unwarranted destruction of life and property the belligerent should, in the absence of conclusive evidence, act on the presumption that an armed merchantmen is of peaceful character.

Must Determine Purpose

"3—A presumption based solely

that two American troopers were killed and three wounded.

Dodd captured twenty-five horses and some miscellaneous loot, scattering the bandits and pursuing them until after dark.

Dodd's detachment unexpectedly came upon the Villistas about 4:30 p. m. as the bandits were hiding in the heart of the Sierras in western Chihuahua. Although outnumbered and their mounts jaded, the Americans spurred to the attack. The Villistas made a brief stand but soon scattered. Those not cut down by bullets escaped to mountain caves and canons. The Americans counted six dead and nineteen wounded Villistas. Dodd continued on to Minaca, his base, to await fresh supplies.

The concentration of Villistas under Generals Cervantes, Baca, Domínguez, and Rios, which the American attack broke up, is believed to indicate that Villa followers are regathering in their mountain haunts for a resumption of their campaigns.

Insist on Withdrawal?

EL PASO, Texas, April 26.—Speedy withdrawal of the American expedition will be insisted upon by War Minister Obregon in his border conference with Chief of Staff Scott, according to local Carranza officials today. The de facto government's plea will be that it cannot pacify the Mexican nation as long as the United States troops are in Mexico. It will demand the evacuation of its territory on practically its own terms.

General Obregon has reached Saltillo on his way north from Mexico City. He can reach Juarez by Friday if that city is his objective. Speculation still dealt with Laredo or Eagle Pass as the possible location of the conference.

Pursue Villistas

GENERAL PERSHING'S HEADQUARTERS, NAMIQUIPA, Mexico, April 26.—(Wireless to Columbus, N. M.)—Several columns of United States troops are actively engaged today in pursuing Villistas reported in the mountains along the American communication lines which now extend only 300 miles off the border.

Villa has been reported with various bands. Every clue that does not carry the expeditionary forces beyond the new limited field of operations is being run down. The advanced base has now been withdrawn to a censored location within 300 miles of the border.

The troops, reinforced and strengthened by concentration along the shortened line, are completely equipped and supplied to hold their present positions for some time even if communications were cut.

presses it with enemy character and subjects it to seizure and prize court condemnation."

Size of a vessel, strength of armament and its defense or offensive force, are immaterial according to the United States view in determining whether a ship is a warship.

Right to visit and search and even to seize without search, provided "hostile character of property is known," is conceded provided the attacking warship displays its flag.

Right of Capture Limited

Exercise of the right to capture, however, is limited nevertheless by certain accepted rules of conduct based on the principles of humanity and regard for innocent property."

Attacking ships are conceded the right to use force if a merchantman of belligerent nationality, aware of the approach of an enemy warship, uses its armament to keep the enemy at a distance.

"If the merchantman finally surrenders," the memorandum continues, "it may in the case of an enemy merchantman, be sunk, but only if it is impossible to take it into port, and provide always that the persons on board are put in a place of safety."

Demand Will Hold

WASHINGTON, April 26.—President Wilson will under no circumstances withdraw his demand that German submarines warn freighters as well as passenger lines, it was declared on good authority here today. This statement was made by officials, who commented on United Press dispatches from Berlin reporting the president's demand with regard to freighters to be the chief obstacles in the way of an amicable settlement.

"The beginning of the submarine controversy, the president has not wavered in his position that freighters be warned."

Demand Obstacle

BERLIN, April 26.—President Wilson's demand that the German submarines warn freighters, as well as passenger liners, constitutes the most serious obstacle in the way of a satisfactory settlement of the German-American relations, the United Press learned authoritatively today.

Other points at controversy can be settled without any danger of a dip-near Portstown. A large detachment with rifles and ammunition marched to a hall being built by the Hibernalians, utterly demolished it and damaged the houses of local Roman Catholics by a fusillade of shots.

"With such provocation in the north, the armed strength of the Sinn Fein in the south must have grown easily."

"The official statements give the number of casualties on the side of the government as about a dozen killed and twenty more wounded. They do not attempt to give the Sinn Fein casualties, nor do they state that an important position seized by the rebels has been recaptured by them. Both of these reticences suggest that the Sinn Feiners may still be holding out. We are also left in the dark as to whether any connection exists between the unsuccessful descent of Sir Roger Casement and his Germans on the Irish coast on or about Good Friday morning and the Dublin outbreak on Easter Monday afternoon."

Pope Opposes Riots

LONDON, April 26.—A wireless dispatch from Rome circulated by a news agency reported today that Pope Benedict strongly disapproves the Dublin disturbances.

His holiness has ordered that a telegram be sent to the archbishop of Dublin requesting particulars and recommending that the people remain quiet the dispatch said.

ZEPPS AGAIN ATTACK MACHINE ENGAGED BY FRENCH PLANE

Second Raid Within Twenty-four Hours Made on East Coast; Warships Return with Wounded

LONDON, April 26.—Four persons were killed and twelve wounded by shells fired from German cruisers in the raid on the English east coast early yesterday, it was officially announced this afternoon.

The city of Yarmouth, as well as Lowestoft, was shelled by the German warships.

At Lowestoft, two hundred and forty dwellings were damaged and forty of them suffering severely. The convalescent home, the pier and the swimming baths were also badly damaged.

At Yarmouth only two buildings were damaged, one of them seriously.

LONDON, April 26.—Three Zeppelins, it was unofficially reported today, participated in a raid last night on the Kent and Essex coasts, the second Zeppelin attack within twenty-four hours.

An early statement from the war office said they were driven off by brisk fire from anti-aircraft guns and apparently did little or no damage.

The raiders threw down 100 bombs off the Thames estuary (east of the metropolitan district of London) in last night's raid, but there were no casualties, the war office announced this afternoon.

The German admiralty, in an official statement issued this afternoon, announced that the Zeppelins bombarded London, Colchester, Blackwater and Ramsgate.

In the Zeppelin raid on the eastern counties on Monday night, the same number of bombs were dropped, but there was only one casualty, the war office announced. This raid was over a rural district, accounting for the delay in announcing its results.

British ships which engaged the German squadron that attacked Lowestoft yesterday morning have returned to their base, bringing about a score of wounded. The British ships were only slightly damaged. The war office has abandoned hope for the safe return of the British aviator reported missing after yesterday morning's combined Zeppelin and cruiser raid.

Fight in Air

PARIS, April 26.—A French aeroplane at 3 o'clock this morning attacked a Zeppelin off Zeebrugge at a height of 13,200 feet, throwing nine incendiary shells at the derisible which was believed to be returning from last night's raid on England. The Zeppelin tilted its nose skyward and moved off but apparently was damaged, the French aviator reported in official dispatches.

Attack Torpedo Boat

At the same hour another French aeroplane attacked a German torpedo boat off Ostend, firing several bombs. The torpedo boat was struck, but the extent of the damage is not definitely known.

Attack upon the Zeppelin resulted in a thrilling battle, more than two miles in the air, about the Belgian coast in the darkness.

Only brief dispatches had reached Paris this afternoon. It appeared, however, that a French squadron, following out the new policy of meeting Zeppelin raiders, darted toward the French coast, for the purpose of intercepting the returning Germans.

Meanwhile one of the French planes participating in the dash along the Belgian coast spied a German torpedo boat in the darkness off Ostend and bombarded the small warship. Hits were observed, the official dispatches said, but in the darkness it was impossible to ascertain exactly how much damage was done.

MAYOR REQUESTS RE-ADVERTISEMENT

"Mr. Carl Hanson, "Com. Public Works, City of La Crosse, "La Crosse, Wis.

"My Dear Sir: In my judgment your advertised notice to team owners, soliciting bids for city work does not comply with the intent and wishes of the council as expressed in the resolution adopted instructing you to advertise for proposals from team owners.

"I respectfully call your attention to the following: 'And be it further resolved, that bids be asked from team owners for the furnishing of from one to seven teams with drivers.' The second paragraph of your notice states that 'bidders shall specify in their bid, the rate at which they will furnish not less than eight teams with teamsters for work upon the south side, and not less than three teams and teamsters for work upon the north side of the city.'

"It appears from your advertised notice to team owners that bids will not be considered offering the services of one or more teams, but bids must be made to furnish eleven teams, and this is not, in my judgment, what the council intended this resolution should mean.

"I therefore respectfully request you to reject all bids received as result of your published notice to team owners under date of April 18, 1916.

"To all of which I most respectfully subscribe.

"A. A. BENTLEY, Mayor."

weather bureau, a stage of fourteen feet will be reached. The rapid rise of the stream today indicates a possible stage of more than fourteen feet.

Estimates of damage being caused in the vicinity of La Crosse today, from some sources, evince the belief that with a rise of six more inches they will come within five figures.

Fear for Bridges

Extreme fear is felt for a score of railroad bridges near La Crosse. All railroads entering the city are rushing all available track crews to weak points on their lines.

While the danger spot in the Burlington track near Trempealeau, which is momentarily expected to be washed out, still held this morning, little hope was expressed by road officials that it would hold until evening. Officials say that it cannot last unless the water stops rising.

The temporary bridge over the long washed-out fill near East Winona was completed early this morning. Road officials here said that only local trains and some freight traffic was being run over it, as yet, for fear of further trouble. Water from the river still continued to rush through the cut into the Trempealeau drainage district, where five square miles of rich bottom land has been converted into a lake.

Six Farmers Marooned

Six Goose Island farmers and their families are practically prisoners in the farm houses, luckily built on comparatively high land.

The marooned farmers are:

Herman Beier, Charles Ristow, George Lewis, August Herman, Herman Hoethe, Joseph Raith.

"Goose Island is practically covered with water," said Mr. Beier, talking to the TRIBUNE over the telephone from his home this morning.

"The water is beginning to creep into the barns on my place," Mr. Beier, "and we will soon need boats to leave our home."

Crops Total Loss

"What spring crops have been planted will be a total loss. While no loss to stock has occurred here yet, it may occur before the day is over. While I cannot definitely estimate the flood loss just now, it will undoubtedly reach several thousand dollars."

With reports of other severe damage on the Wisconsin side of the river just below La Crosse, came word that water backing up in Root river, in Minnesota, was covering the La Crescent-Hokah road near the farm owned by Miller brothers. Teams are crossing flooded part of the road, although it is impassable for automobiles.

Water is covering the low road between the north side and French Island, and with the rapidity with which the water is traveling, it is feared that part of the road may be washed away. Tons of gravel and sand ballast have been placed on the roadway within the last week but to no avail.

Island Bridge in Danger

Grave fear is also felt for the old Black river draw bridge, which the town of Campbell and the city may rebuild. The structure, roadmen say, is in danger of being carried out.

French Island is going through a repetition of the flood of the early part of the month, and water is now several inches higher than the stage which wrecked a score of summer homes and caused huge damage.

Koepeke's Flooded

Summer cottages which were almost submerged recently are again being reached only by boats. The Koepeke saloon at Piccadilly, Rice Lake, is only half out of water. The water is reported to be a foot and a half deep on the lower floor, which is raised several feet above the level of the ground.

French Island farm land escaping the flood during the early part of the present month is today in danger of being completely flooded, and it is predicted that by the end of the week, several hundred acres will be under water.

Pedestrians between the north and south sides were today walking in the middle of the causeway. City street workmen were called out in force to save several yards of cement walk, undermined by the lapping water and half-drowned muskrats, the animals which are partially blamed for the washout in the Burlington right-of-way near East Winona Sunday night.

Goose Green Takes to Boats

Goose Green, the north side locality lying in a low spot, and which was probably hardest hit by the high water several days ago, is again experiencing considerable trouble. Boats are again being called into general use, and dwellers of the homes in the neighborhood are deserting all but the upper floors.

Water which backed up in the La Crosse river and over the marshes on the east side of the causeway crossed the street car tracks at Monitor and Rose streets this morning. The tracks were raised two weeks ago to prevent a repetition of the recent flood, but the record water

(Furnished by the U. S. Weather Bureau.)

Cool rainy weather prevailed during the week over the whole state. The precipitation was generally heaviest in the northern and central counties, averaging two to two and a half inches and some of it fell in the form of snow. There were occasional thunderstorms and in a few cases they were accompanied by hail. In the western suburbs of Milwaukee there was a very heavy hailstorm on the 19th, breaking great quantities of glass in greenhouses, causing damage to the extent of several thousand dollars. The nights were generally cold, the temperature going below freezing at many of the northern stations and there was a lack of sunshine.

Farm work was very badly delayed by the wet weather, in fact but little was done during the week except in a few of the southwestern counties where the precipitation was not so heavy.

Pastures and winter grains started a little in the southern portion but in the north all vegetation is very backward. In some of the extreme southern counties fruit trees have made their appearance and some early sown oats are coming up.

Warmer weather with more sunshine is needed to start crops and let farm work progress.

mark reached today was not provided against.

The macadam road between La Crosse and Onalaska, relaid recently, was flooded at several points today from the backwater from Black river. The damage, it is believed, will be serious if the Mississippi continues to rise.

Water was on the verge of entering the basements of the Sisson, Seilstedt, Hogan Wholesale Grocery company this afternoon. Merchandise was being rapidly removed from one section of the basement.

The unloading wheat pit of the Litsman Mill company was endangered this afternoon from the water which is lapping at its edges. Heads of the concern said that the pit would probably be flooded before very many hours.

PROMINENT WINONA WOMAN KILLED IN
TRAIN-AUTO CRASH
Mrs. Harry T. Stott Fatally
Injured When Burlington
Train Crashes Into Car
on Crossing

WINONA, Minn., April 26.—(Special.)—Mrs. Harry T. Stott, wife of a prominent Winona manufacturer, died at 3 o'clock this morning as the result of injuries received when a Burlington train crashed into the Stott automobile on a railroad crossing last night.
The Burlington Chicago Limited at 11 o'clock last night at the Broadway crossing of the Milwaukee road plowed into the automobile and fatally injured Mrs. Stott, slightly bruised her son, Tom, aged four, and scratched and lacerated the driver. The automobile was almost totally demolished—the body ground to kindling wood as a result of the terrific collision. The force of the impact was heard for several blocks.
Mr. Stott, although the crossing is an open one, evidently was blinded by a misty rain which was falling at the time. The machine was almost directly over the rails when the locomotive plunged into it, lifted the obstruction from the crossing and deposited it a heap of wreckage over the occupants.
Mrs. Stott was on the side where the locomotive struck. She was unconscious when lifted from beneath the rear of the automobile and carried into the home of W. J. Kauphusman, 999 West Broadway, nearby.

REFUGEES AT COPENHAGEN

LONDON, April 26.—A number of Americans, who left Germany convinced that a diplomatic break is imminent, have arrived at Copenhagen. Paris dispatches today reported the arrival at Geneva of several Americans from Germany.

NEW YORK IRISH TOLD OF REVOLT

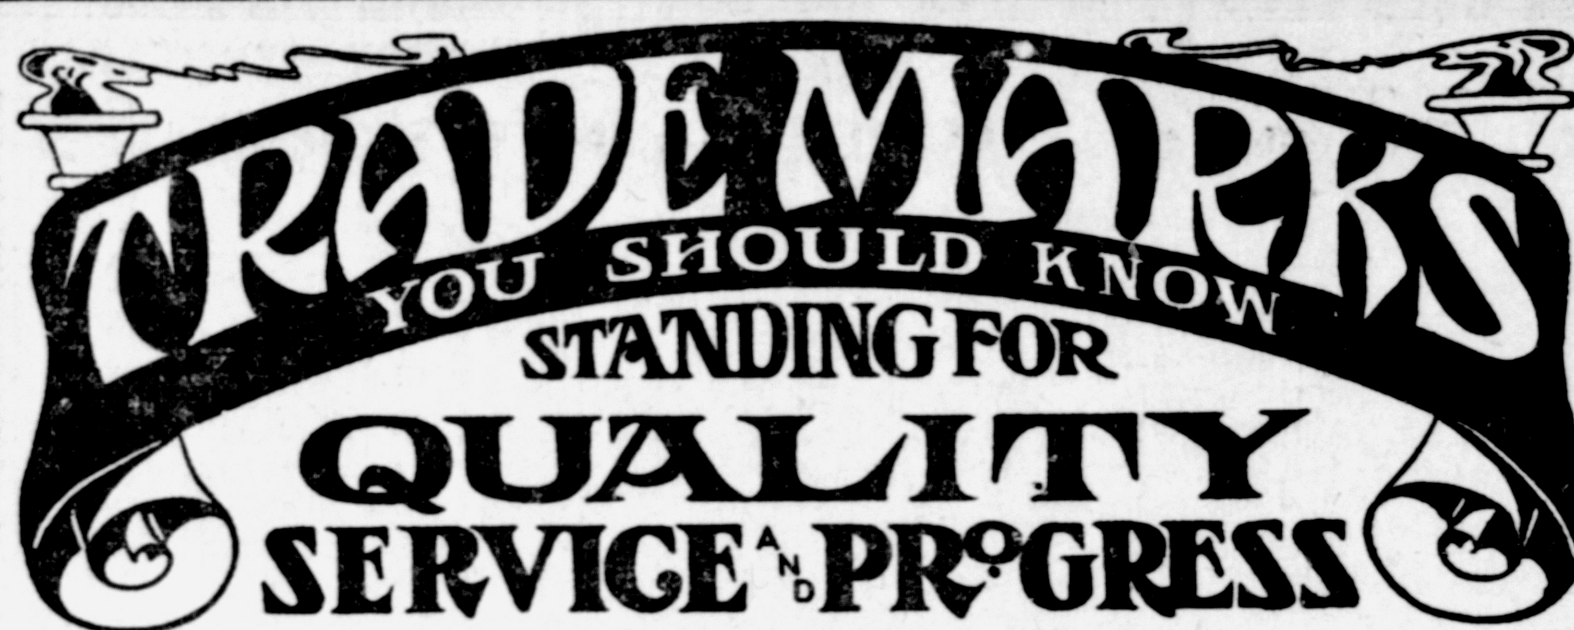

NEW YORK, April 26.—Local Irish, the Evening Mail reported yesterday received a cablegram Monday morning saying Dublin was captured Sunday by Irish volunteers after a sharp fight.
The cablegram reported that Lord Wimbourne, the lord lieutenant of Ireland; Under Secretary Nathan, and General Friend, commander of the forces, and the whole British military staff with several hundred soldiers, are now prisoners in the hands of the Irish and are being held as hostages for the life of Sir Roger Casement.

Other important successes were won by the revolutionists in other parts of Ireland, the cablegram said. German submarines are infesting the Irish sea to attack any British transports carrying troops to Ireland. The cablegram said two British warships were sunk by the German submarine accompanying the German auxiliary which landed Sir Roger.

It's easy for a man to follow advice that coincides with his own views.

GREGORY DELIVERS SEIZED PAPERS TO STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Attorney General Gregory this afternoon sent to the state department the original papers seized from Wolf von Igel, which Ambassador von Bernstorff claims as official embassy papers.

Return of Ambassador von Bernstorff from New York resulted in a marked change of attitude of the German embassy regarding the seizure of the now famous Von Igel. Calm is the new attitude.

The whole question is a "legal matter," it was said. And the German view is that the United States authorities acted illegally.

If it should be shown, however, that Von Igel was guilty of activities improper on the part of an embassy attaché—which, of course, is not admitted, the embassy takes the view that this government will ask for his recall. In that event, it is intimated he will be recalled as Von Papen and Boy-Ed were.

TROUT-HOBOES AND PROUD FISHERMAN IN RUSHFORD DRAMA

Situation Is Tense and the Family Is Riled by Events Leading Up to the Following Story

RUSHFORD, Minn., April 26.—(Special.)—Had some Rushford been so disposed, they might have written a stirring scenario from circumstances which occurred here a few days ago. John Peterson, stockbuyer, six husky hoboes and nine speckled beauties of the trout species were the chief characters in the plot.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson went to a famed trout stream and caught nine fish, which were brought home, cleaned and put upon a platter in a summer kitchen.

Mr. Peterson arose early the following morning and went to take care of his stock; his mind filled with visions of breakfast. When the other members of the family arose, they found that some mysterious agency had made way with all but one of the trout. A window was pried up in the summer kitchen. One lone fish reposed in the platter and when Mr. Peterson returned for his morning meal, the ensuing events may be better imagined than described. He remembered seeing six "Weary Willies" camped near the depot and these are supposed to be the miscreants who so timed their depredations as to secure the trout.

A number of old-time friends and neighbors of Mrs. J. C. Larson gave an informal luncheon in her honor, at the home of Mrs. John Pederson of Brooklyn, last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Larson were Rushford residents for a number of years; moving from here to Dexter where Mr. Larson has a barber shop. Mrs. Larson had been visiting in La Crosse and stopped off in this city on her way home.

FRANK PRZYWOJSKI DIES SUDDENLY AT SOUTH SIDE HOME

Popular Official of Street-car Company Dies After Return from Colorado Trip

Employees of the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power company are mourning today the death of Frank Przywojski, assistant superintendent of the company, who died suddenly at midnight at his home, 1222 Winnebago street. Mr. Przywojski returned three weeks ago, apparently much improved after a four months' stay in Denver, Colo., and up to a few days ago was believed to be on the road to recovery.

Mr. Przywojski was one of the best known and liked officials in the street car company. He was known as an indefatigable worker, a favorite alike with the men and the higher officials of the company. He was assistant superintendent for some years before the present corporation took over the La Crosse Street Railway company, and was retained by the new owners. He had worked his way to the assistant superintendency from the position of motorman, which he took up twelve years ago.

Mr. Przywojski was born in La Crosse September 29, 1878, and was a resident here all his life. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, as well as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Przywojski. Two brothers, Joseph J. and Leo, are residents of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Samuels, lives in Chicago. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

BOB IS TARGET OF STALWARTS AT MADISON MEET

MADISON, Wis., April 26.—M. J. Jeffris was named as La Follette's opponent at 3:25.

MADISON, Wis., April 26.—The stalwart senatorial meeting was opened by George A. West, chairman of the state central committee at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

West's address was largely a plea for the defeat of Senator La Follette whom he said, was "a republican in Wisconsin; a democrat in Washington; a prohibitionist in North Dakota, and a representative of the liquor interests in this state."

Tariff Reopening Cry
The committee of 10 was called to order this afternoon at two o'clock by Chairman E. T. Fairchild, Milwaukee. About 70 members were present.

"We are met here commissioned to consider the endorsement of a candidate for United States senator," said Mr. Fairchild. "The conference whose agent we are, has taken a position declarative of our attitude toward national policies. It is for us to select a representative in the person of a candidate who will present our case to the members of the republican party."

Senator Fairchild made a plea for the nomination of a candidate who would be representative of the republican party in the matter of a protective tariff. He strongly condemned the present democratic tariff.

The prevailing sentiment among conservative republicans here today for the purpose of naming a candidate for the United States senate to oppose Senator La Follette seems to point to the selection of Malcolm G. Jeffris, Janesville. It is claimed by the supporters of Mr. Jeffris that he has the majority of votes pledged to his candidacy.

The friends of John M. Whitehead, Janesville, however, have made a personal canvass of the committee and show memoranda revealing that 50 per cent of the committee are on record in his favor.

Nobody Knows What's Up
This diversity of opinion, taken with the seeming lack of knowledge as to what the committee will do, makes the entire matter one of speculation.

There is also a decided sentiment in favor of George B. Hudnall, of Superior.

"We would very much like to see Mr. Hudnall named as the senatorial candidate," said Thomas B. Reed, of Appleton, today. "We feel that a man of his political attitude should be named instead of a radical conservative."

The rank and file of the delegates here do not seem to know what is going to happen, and there is a strong sentiment in favor of not naming a candidate at all.

According to David Atwood, of Janesville, "Governor Philipp yesterday declared that he would not be a candidate for the nomination."

"I will not be a candidate and will not allow my name to be mentioned," Mr. Atwood reported the governor as saying.

TAGGART NAMED

KILLIAN TO FACE ELECTRICIANS AT THURSDAY SESSION

Frank J. Killian, city electrical inspector, will face the committee of the electrical workers' union which is attacking his administration of the office Thursday evening at a meeting of the council committees called today. The committees called to session for the meeting are the fire, finance, schools and grounds and buildings organizations. Mr. Killian and Robert Draeger, P. Pittenger and A. W. Johnson, the latter trio representing the electricians' union, were also summoned to attend.

Recently the electricians in a petition to the council asked a readjustment of the laws relating to electrical inspection and the appointment of a new inspector to devote his entire time to the work. The petition cited numerous instances of alleged dangerous wiring in buildings in the city.

Take Iron, Says Doctor, if You Want Plenty of "Stay There" Strength Like an Athlete!

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Rundown People 200% Stronger in Two Weeks' Time, in May Cases

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a well known specialist, who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Then take two five grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, rundown people who were ailing all the while, double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is one of the newer organic iron compounds. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent, or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Mariner's Pharmacy and all other druggists.

BAR SILVER UP

NEW YORK, April 26.—Bar silver, quoted in New York yesterday at 67 1/2 cents, is higher than it has been since September 30, 1907, when it reached 67 1/2c.

The crowding of gold into the central banks and the consequent heavy purchases of silver for coinage by England and the continental mints, together with the non-operation of Mexican silver mines is given as the cause for the jump.

IOWA GLEE CLUB PLEASES AUDIENCE AT THE NORMAL

The Iowa state college glee club, which is making an eleven day tour of points between Minneapolis and Chicago, appeared in the normal auditorium last evening. The club is under the direction of Mr. Walter Greene, soloist of note, who sang three selections and concluded the varied program with his rendition of the Toreador's Song from Carmen which was very well received.

The program given by the young men was interspersed with solos, quartet numbers and the violin, cello and piano trio selections. From the Iowa state college field song to Mr. Greene's finale the twenty-seven songsters succeeded in keeping the audience highly entertained with the more difficult numbers on their program as well as with the humorous encores. The program was of a high calibre for a college glee club.

USING UP VITALITY

The struggle for success uses up vitality in America at a greater rate than any other thing. Fighting to keep away from the poor-house we shorten the distance to the grave.

Especially in middle age, at forty or thereabouts, do we become impressed with the necessity of laying up a competence and with that feeling in time comes worry, nervous breakdown, neurasthenia. The entire system feels the result of the nervous strain. The digestion resents things that it accepted before, the heart palpitates on slight exertion, the muscles of the back ache after a day's work. Your blood is thinner and not so bright a red.

When these things occur, whether you are a man or a woman, you need a tonic. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suits most people's need, because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. They are useful for growing children and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overtaxed.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklets on the blood and nerves.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THIS HABIT AS WELL AS MEN

Don't eat bite of breakfast until you drink glass of hot water.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

to Winona Sunday morning to meet Miss Charlotte Fish, who returned from a week-end visit at her home near Utica.

Mrs. Margaret Tuell, who visited relatives here the past week, returned to her home in Winona Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hill and family of Winona were visitors in town Saturday evening.

The council originally opposed this material, favoring giving the contract to the White Construction company of Milwaukee, which bid $30,000 higher for Trinidad asphalt.

PEACE TELEGRAMS SWAMP LAWMAKERS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Telegraph companies on Monday doubled their forces to take care of tremendous floods of "peace telegrams" pouring in on congressmen and senators. Extra messenger boys delivered batches to senators, 100 messages at a time. Over-night 20,000 were received.

The middle west furnished the largest proportion of telegrams. Illinois senators, Lewis and Sherman, were fairly deluged.

A large part of them were signed by German-Americans or German-American societies, many were not. Senator Vardmann, representing Bryan sentiment, it was believed, came out today for a nation-wide vote to precede any war.

Withington was the central figure, and he wasted no time in preliminaries, but got the men down to business immediately, teaching the linemen in particular as he had been taught by the incomparable Haughton of Harvard.

Bill Juneau and Keg Driver, coaches of last year's eleven, were both on the job. Juneau was handling part of the backfield candidates, and Driver the other. Keg has been demonstrating his loyalty to Wisconsin by consistent work with the spring candidates although he has not received a salary appointment as a coach for next fall.

Besides last year's staff, with the exception of Tom Wilson, line coach, the two new assistants were also at work. John Deberry, a Harvard quarterback, who came with Dr.
Withington, spent most of the afternoon teaching the quarterback candidates how to receive from the center, and Cub Buck, captain of last year's eleven, was working the linemen, who were not under the personal direction of Dr. Withington, at bucking.

help and now all that is needed is the permission of the athletic coun-big games Friday and Saturday. The BOSTON, Mass., April 26.—Rudolph held New York to four hits on Tuesday, Boston winning, 3 to 1. The visitors' run came after two were out and the bases full in the first inning. Rousch hit a grounder to Konetchy and Rudolph failed to reach the bag in time to take the throw.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 26.—Cleveland defeated Chicago in the opening game of the series, 9 to 2. Coumbe who pitched for Cleveland, held Chicago to six hits, three of which were made by Fournier. He passed the first two batters in the fourth and the recipients were the only Chicago men to score.

The Woodland Bards of Chicago were present in honor of their fellow member, James C. Dunn, president of the Cleveland club, the day being designated as "Dunn Day." Dunn was presented with a large wardrobe trunk by the Cleveland fire department.

Among the notables present were Secretary of War Baker, Ban Johnson, president of the American league; Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, and Charles Weeghman, owner of the Chicago Cubs. CHICAGO, April 26.—Johnny Coulon, ex-bantam champion, was a "come-back" here today after beating Johnny Ritchie of Chicago in a ten round test bout at Kenosha last night. Coulon's long lay-off made his judgment of distance poor, but he displayed enough to win by a comfortable margin.

on Material for Normal and State Events

After a week of rest track aspirants at the high school are again hard at work plugging for the first meet which probably will be held Saturday morning. Last week no call was made by Coach Horne because of work which was going on in the annex. All are in excellent condition now, however, and the runners who should be most affected by the "lay off" lost very little time Monday night on the time set before. The track also has been improved during the week and in spite of the rains is still solid. The meet Saturday if held will merely be for the purpose of getting a good line on the men, all of whom have not been directly under Horne's eye and some dark horses may be discovered.

The material, to date, is more or less doubtful. Very little work has been done on the hurdles, but Captain Kulczynski can be relied on in both the high and the low "stepping" events. A blow was given this department when it was announced that Kelly, who has not fully recovered from an injury received in basketball and who was counted on for points in the hurdles, will not report this year. Lilly is leading the sprinters and looks good, although he is hard pushed by C. Stupka and Kinnear. Wallie Reget has been attempting the sprints also, but his strained instep does not allow his giving great speed. He is high jumping almost as well as ever, however, and is pushing Leskovec hard for honors in the discus. Weeks, who has been going nearly ten feet in the pole vault, is down in his studies and may not be able to enter any of the meets. Jenks is going well in this event, however. The broad jump is a weak event, but King is expected to make good in the shot put.

The first real meet of the year will be the annual normal school meet. Without doubt La Crosse will be represented at Madison and plans are being made for sending a small team to Beloit. Inter-class base ball seems to be a failure this year. Only one class has elected a captain and although Roeder, who was named as manager for the year has published a schedule
